A first impression

A home with a minimalist and contemporary feel, designed for those looking to rent a tidy, bright, and easily customizable space, featuring a functional layout and outdoor areas that pleasantly complement daily life. The property's style emphasizes clean lines, neutral tones, and a seamless flow between the different rooms.

Located on the first floor, the apartment features a spacious and well-proportioned living area, organized as a single, inviting open space. The kitchen, arranged in a linear fashion along the wall and fully equipped, gives way to the dining area and living room, allowing for a variety of furnishing arrangements. The numerous windows ensure an abundance of natural light and connect the interior with the long outdoor balcony. A light, exposed staircase—with a white frame and wooden treads—adds a distinctive architectural element without overwhelming the space.

The sleeping area includes two bedrooms, both featuring light-colored finishes and dimensions that allow for a comfortable arrangement of furniture. The master bedroom can easily accommodate a double bed and a storage area, while the second bedroom can serve as either a single bedroom, a guest room, or a home office, adapting to the tenant's varying needs.

The bathrooms maintain the same understated style as the rest of the home, with neutral wall finishes, modern-style fixtures, and a shower area. The uniform light-colored flooring helps create visual continuity throughout the spaces, while the white window frames further enhance the overall brightness.

The balcony provides a pleasant additional space and visually connects several rooms in the home, offering a useful outdoor retreat for everyday life.
