Une première impression

On the white grid of the façade, every balcony becomes a frame: glass with a soft green cast, timber slats the colour of honey, and greenery falling down the side elevation like a curtain. On the second floor of a new building in Alimos, Pearlgate opens onto one flowing space of living room, dining area and island kitchen, made for long tables. Before it, a long terrace runs the full width of the home, for summer evenings. Three bedrooms with built-in wardrobes, two of them at the rear, and two bathrooms. In winter, warmth rises quietly from the floor, and photovoltaics on the building support its A++ energy class. Two closed parking spaces and a storage room. The door closes and the city stays outside, like a pearl in its white shell.

Alimos is one of the most complete seaside neighbourhoods of the Athens Riviera: a marina, a beach, the coastal avenue, and tram and metro connections, a few minutes from the centre of Glyfada. Next to it, the Ellinikon project is under way, and its developer states that the first residential handovers begin in 2027. The area lives all year round, not only in summer.

A primary residence with three bedrooms and a terrace that becomes a second living room in summer. A buyer who wants a new A++ building close to the sea, with two parking spaces. And a long-term holding in a neighbourhood that lives all year.
