All about the location

Galilea, a charming mountain village in the Tramuntana mountains on Mallorca, offers a unique combination of tranquillity, breathtaking views and traditional Mallorcan architecture. Surrounded by impressive mountains and lush forests, Galilea conveys the feeling of a hidden paradise far away from mass tourism. The natural stone houses, narrow, winding streets and small squares give the village an unmistakable charm. The surrounding area is ideal for numerous outdoor activities. Hiking trails lead through the spectacular mountain landscape and offer breathtaking views of the sea and the island. The church of Sant Joan Baptista reflects the rich religious tradition of the village. Although Galilea seems secluded, the distance to Palma is about 25 km and the airport about 35 km. Palma offers a variety of cultural and gastronomic experiences, from historical sights such as La Seu Cathedral to modern shopping centers and lively markets.
Galilea is therefore the ideal place for those who appreciate the tranquillity and beauty of nature without having to sacrifice proximity to the urban amenities and cultural diversity of Palma. Here you will find a harmonious retreat that combines the best of both worlds.
